Four Multiple-Injury Crashes Among 18 In Area During Weekend

After a post-Christmas lull in traffic casualties, the pace increased during the weekend resulting in 13 persons being injured in Quad-City auto accidents recorded through this morning.

The latest weekend toll included 18 collisions. Among them were a crash that caused four injuries and two that caused three injuries each.

Four persons were hurt at 8:30 p. m. Sunday in a collision on Route 111 at the Bypass 60 intersection. Involved were the southbound auto of Loren Madison, 26, of 4100 Highway 111, and the northbound auto of Bill L. Spatz, 45, St. Louis.

Both cars were badly damaged, and the drivers received treatment at St. Elizabeth Hospital along with Madison's passengers, his wife, June 22, and their son, Donald, one year old. Spatz suffered multiple lacerations requiring nine sutures on the back of the neck and is to return for skull, back and left knee x-rays.

Memorial To War Dead of City To Be Offered Park

Members of the Granite City War Memorial Committee, which dates back to 1946, Thursday evening unanimously approved erection of a vari-colored water fountain on the grounds of Memorial Park, across from St. Elizabeth Hospital on Madison avenue, subject to acceptance of the proposal by the Granite City Park District.

The illuminated fountain cost would be borne by the Granite City War Memorial Fund, raised through a series of public events and contributions which now approximate $12,000.

The proposed fountain reservoir would be 25 feet in diameter, with 10 underwater lights that provide five color changes. A stream of water would be hurled 16 feet into the air, and operation of the pump and lights would be automatic.

It is hoped by the committee that the park district, if it accepts the proposal, would further beautify the triangle-shaped Memorial Park grounds. Suggested were paths leading from each of the park corners to the centrally-located fountain, as well as shrub, flowers and trees, and benches.

A memorial plaque honoring Granite City's war dead is to be affixed to the fountain and an attractive chain of lights around it. Design of the installation is being handled by Gabriel and Dalgarno, architects.

Wm. Milton Worthen, president of the memorial committee, presided at Thursday's meeting held at the Granite City Trust and Savings Bank, which originally started the fund. Others present were H. D. Karandjef, Clarence Baumeier, Eldon Curtright, Carl Ranft, E. G. Schmitt and C. E. Townsend.

Shed Burns In Venice

Fire destroyed a small frame shed at the year of 523 Merced street, Venice, at 3:57 p. m. Saturday. Firemen said the blaze apparently began inside the building, and the origin could not be determined.

Youth Organization To Aid Teenagers With Problems

The opening salvoes were sounded here Sunday in war to strike at juvenile delinquency at its roots by helping adolescent potential wrongdoers out of the youth.

This "Help the Kids" crusade will be funneled through the Madison County Youth Federation, the groundwork for which was laid at a conference at the YMCA.

The federated teenagers, in a position to know the knotty problems of adolescence, will more successfully to adjust to them, will hold out a helping hand to those of their age-group in trouble.

The federation would handle referrals of problem children from schools and police department.

Personal Assistance
By example, "Good Samaritan" approaches and perhaps man-to-man avenues of persuasion, the group would step in to help the wavering find the right path.

It is in the nature of a "grass roots" approach to juvenile delinquency, and "growing up" which has the stamp of approval of the Illinois Youth Commission's division of community services.

One Death, 47 Injuries In 1960

62 of 182 Venice Accidents On Broadway

Sixty-two Broadway traffic accidents were included among the 182 occurring in the city of Venice during the 1960 calendar year, a report by Police Chief Robert M. Trower revealed today.

The large percentage of mishaps on Broadway is regarded as understandable, since it is the longest and most heavily-used thoroughfare in the city.

But by a master traffic chart of the city—the police department hopes to be able to take steps to further limit the traffic toll.

LONG VIGIL BY CANDIDATES AND THEIR REPRESENTATIVES

Five stillbirths and 29 deaths from the 1957 high of 1498, 23 months, here is the 1960 record of Quad-City area births and deaths.

The birth rate was below that of 1959, when a final tally showed 1381 new arrivals during the twelfth month, and ahead in the death column. During 1959, according to the clerk's record, there were 365 Quad-Cities deaths. In 1959, there were only 15 stillbirths.

Breakdown By Months

January—119 and 35 (deaths); February—104 and 41; March—119 and 30; April—102 and 34; May—120 and 29; June—103 and 36; July—133 and 31; August—110 and 38; September—124 and 29; October—120 and 29; November—100 and 30, and December—97 and 29.

The December birth rate was the second lowest of the year, with 97 as against May's 120.

The number of deaths remained steady at 29 for the last three months of October, November and December.

Births For Each Death

Calculated on the number of live births against deaths, the 1960 ratio stood at 3.4 births for each death.

Covering a 10-year span, Quad-City vital statistics, based on Stevens' compilations, showed 13,624 births as contrasted with 3712 deaths.

For a backward glance at the Quad-Cities vital statistics for a decade beginning with 1951, here are the figures, the first tabulation being that of live births, the second, still births, and the third, deaths, during the 12-month period:

For 1951, the record reads: 1230, 20 and 299; 1952—1230, 30 and 320; 1953—1238, 21 and 356; 1954—1342, 17 and 268; 1955—1384, 18 and 268; 1956—1488, 26 and 388; 1957—1495, 21 and 397; 1958—1434, 18 and 401; 1959—1361, 15 and 355.

Based on these figures, the 10-year period ending on last Dec. 31, gives an effective birth rate of 3.4 for each death, a change of the same nature as the change seen in 1960, with 13,624 newborn babies arriving and 3712 expected to leave the final rest. This is a ratio of around 3.7 to one death.

'Black Cat Day' Friday: It's the 13th, So Beware!

The combination of Friday and the number 13 has carried down from the dark, primordial past as an ominous one, indeed a date of which to be particularly wary and apprehensive.

The past year brought but one "black cat" Friday—the 13th—on May 18.

In 1961, there will be two of them, the first coming up this week, the second to follow in September.

So, if there are Quad-Cityans who are superstitious, to be forewarned is to be forearmed.

Look out for black cats and paths they cross, for ladders, for broken mirrors, and how shoes are put on—right or left one first.

Dictionary Explanation

The dictionary defines superstition as an irrational, subject to state of mind toward the supernatural, proceeding from an unreasoning fear of the unknown.

Be that as it may, superstition attaches to many objects, dates and happenings.

"Psychologists will tell that in the face of the fact that most persons deny it, a tincture, a grain of superstition is in the make-up of millions. They may laugh about their fears or reluctance to undertake a new venture on Friday the 13th, but say the observing 'head shrinker' it is deep-rooted in world culture and folkways.

Some say "I'm not superstitious," but cross their fingers at the same time.

'Dimes' March Gets Starter; 'Blue Crutch' Money 1st In

The 1961 Quad-City 'New March of Dimes' campaign was launched Thursday night with a plea for more money to continue research in preventive medicine and crippling diseases and receipt of initial gifts to the fund drive.

The plea was made at a "kick-off" dinner at the Rose Bowl restaurant by state and county representatives of the National Foundation and by Granite City Mayor Leonard T. Davis, among others. Mrs. Roberta Lambert is chairman of the area, monthly drive, which will be climaxed on Jan. 31 with a community-wide "Mother's March." This will be a door-to-door canvass for "Dimes" giving.

Hope To Top $8900 Mrs. Lambert explained today that there is no "goal" fixed for the Quad-City drive, but added she hoped to match and perhaps excel last year's grand total of $8900.

First-in returns came Thursday evening in the "Blue Crutch" tag day street sales, conducted by the Odd Fellows and Rebekah lodges. This amounted to $188, and a check in this sum was given to the drive treasurer, Mrs. Clara Parker, by Mrs. Glynn Hillard, representing the fraternal orders.

The tag day was on Jan. 3, and the Odd Fellows and Rebekah lodges, among others, were active in the order's 65,000 fraternalists of the order planning, nationally, to help the "New March of Dimes" effort.

Area Council Planning Girl Scout Unification

A Girl Scout development council, composed of leaders of troops from a six-county area which includes the Tri-Cities Council, held meetings in Belleville Wednesday afternoon to further solidify plans for the unification of Girl Scout units active in the district.

Called "Project Five," the development council's activities are still in the study stage, but recommendations in several areas are expected to be acted upon when the council next meets on Feb. 7, 8 and 9 at St. Louis.

Area committees in camping and training already are functioning, and at last week's meeting the development group approved a motion calling for the training of Girl Scouts for participation in the 1962 national roundup to be accomplished on an area level instead of within the individual councils as has been the rule in the past.

Being studied by members of the council at the present time are the proposed governmental structure of the new area council, what central services it will administer, and the method of financing such an area organization.

Four goals have been adopted by area workers, including (1) a continuous program of relations with the community, (2) a plan to keep interested persons informed of the plans and progress of the reorganization of the area, (3) an establishment of the sizes of troops at the Brownie, Intermediate and Junior Girl Scout levels, (4) an area-wide plan for recruiting and training adult leaders and (5) improvement of the Senior Girl Scout program.

Local members of the area planning council are Mrs. George Eubanks, Mrs. Charles Rodell, Mrs. Mary Massman and Mrs. David Welch.

Fees, Hours, Pay Comparison Would Aid In Setting Officials' Salaries

Should salaries of the top four city officials of Granite City be raised? Just as full information aids in reaching any decision, more light on the topic may show the way to an answer.

Each of the officials could be considered separately, and it would be important to know the amount of present salaries and fees. For example, fees earned by the city clerk's office would have to be known before council members could determine whether the current income is equitable or too low.

It would also be helpful to know what other cities of comparable size are paying for similar positions. And while, in theory, administrators' raises must keep pace with those of the employees, consideration should be given to whether the office is being filled on a full-time or part-time basis.

In regard to aldermanic pay, the eight council members still receiving $15 a meeting will advance to $25 after the April election and Alderman Meyer suggests that the council then eliminate the $30 monthly expense allowance. This might be a wise step for the "expense" allowance is legally questionable since most aldermen collect it but do not give an itemized account of what the money was spent for, including all vouchers and bills.

Certainly, if pay raises are voted, the action should be taken early enough that all will know the salaries of offices well in advance of the filing period close. The previous action of voting raises the day before the election limited the field of candidates to those willing to run without full knowledge of what would be paid.

Need Recognized For Expansion Of Madison City Boundaries

Renewed plans for expansion of Madison city boundaries raise the possibility of a larger population, improved services and broader tax base, all of which are proper goals of the city government.

Although several problems are involved, expansion toward the east seems most feasible. One of the difficulties is that initial assessment gains would not offset added municipal service costs, but the city is in a sound enough financial position to absorb this if the expansion opens the door to additional territory that might have a more favorable cost-revenue ratio.

Later, thought could be given to expansion to the south, possibly including the Cloverleaf area as an intermediary step. There is much open land between Madison and East St. Louis, and the present city limits contain few vacant sites.

Fringe areas constitute more of a problem than may be realized. At best, unincorporated sections avoid only the city and park tax rates, which are but a small portion of the total local tax; often, the rates charged in unincorporated areas even exceed those in cities. In exchange for little or no savings, these areas encounter low property values and high insurance rates. Many residents who would gladly pay for services now provided by cities find these services unavailable at any price.

Best answer for all is the enlargement of cities as the residential and commercial area grows. It is good to know that annexation of more land has been placed high on Madison officials' priority list.

First Shots Of Civil War Fired 100 Years Ago Today

Exactly 100 years ago today, first shots of the Civil War were fired by shore batteries at Charleston, S. C. Southerners scored two hits on the ship, which turned back before reaching the federal garrison at Fort Sumter with supplies and reinforcements of 250 soldiers.

During the next four years, numerous century-old events will be traced as part of the centennial observance. The return of the "sixties" decade inevitably will revive discussions and questions about the War Between the States, among them the exact date when the break became irreconcilable. Some will point to Dec. 20, 1860, when South Carolina seceded, and to April 12, 1861, when the actual attack on Fort Sumter took place.

But many also will regard Jan. 9 as decisive, for it was then that the government was put on notice that it would not be allowed to maintain Fort Sumter. Gov. Pickens, upon his state's secession, had claimed the base and sent commissioners to Washington to negotiate for its transfer. This developed after Major Robert Anderson on Dec.

26 moved his two small companies of men to Fort Sumter from Fort Moultrie, which was untenable against land attack.

From the time the supply ship was halted on Jan. 9, the situation deteriorated rapidly. By Feb. 1, six other states had seceded. Other governments seized forts and arsenals without bothering to negotiate, the confederacy was formed and Jefferson Davis was inaugurated as its president on Feb. 18. Many wanted to let the division stand, but President Lincoln learned in March that Anderson might be starved into surrender, and he honored his pledge to maintain all existing federal territory by sending a food shipment. The armistice followed.

The remainder of the history also will be relived, much of it sadly. Chief results of the 525,000 deaths were preservation of the union, abolition of slavery and sweeping social and economic changes. In review, the war may have been necessary to halt slavery, with dissenters saying the South eventually would have done so voluntarily. But 100 years ago today, if the unarmed steamer had been allowed to proceed, the succession of events might well have been far different.

Constable, JP Vote Emphasizes Value Of Consolidated Polls

With Granite City officials declining to permit use of city polling places for the justice of the peace and constable election in April, voters again will encounter inconvenience and unnecessary election costs. This prospect points up the confusion that continues to recur, largely due to lack of identical city and county polls in the co-extensive city-township.

Voting turnouts usually are smaller than they should be, and the necessity of going to two or three locations on the same election day discourages many from voting. And there will be added confusion in the coming election because registration is required for JP and constable voting but not for city or other township offices.

The city, township and county have the responsibility for ease of voting, a minimum of confusion and economy and efficiency in operation of polls.

A major step forward would be consolidation of voting areas, with the locations and boundaries of polls made as permanent as possible. From this, costs could be slashed, people would know exactly where to vote and voting would be speeded by reducing the number of trips to polls. The saving in time and money justifies action by the responsible officials.

Sharp Increase In Nameoki Twp. Relief Cases

A sharp increase in Nameoki relief cases was reported for December by Township Supervisor Harry Briggs, who said layoffs and seasonal loss of jobs caused the upturn.

The townships caseload jumped from 42 in November to 73 cases in December. The November caseload totaled $4921, while in December the amount was $7800. Supervisor Briggs said the larger total was due to a number of old medical and hospital bills which were paid during the month.

In December 1959, the township had 43 relief cases and gave assistance totaling $3014.

Tuberculin Tests Tuesday At GCHS, 2 Junior Highs

Tuberculin tests are to be given to more than 2000 Granite City district students tomorrow morning. The Mantoux tests will be conducted at Granite City high school for all grades and at Frasier Junior high schools for ninth grades.

The annual program will be conducted by a volunteer staff of local physicians, aided by school nurses, other local nurses and parents of students. About 11 doctors will participate.

The physicians will return Friday to determine reactions to the test. Those showing positive reactions will be asked to receive x-rays at the schools in February.

Mrs. Ruth Mitchell of the school nursing staff, who helped arrange the program, explained that positive tests do not indicate tuberculosis. However, since they do not rule out the possibility, x-rays are recommended as a precautionary measure.

Students with positive tests a year ago will not take the new tests but will be included in the x-ray schedule. Last year, 1229 GCHS students and 108 Coudage pupils were tested.

The program is sponsored by the Madison county sanatorium.

Scout Commissioners Get Achievement Award

Each Unihw district commissioner is entitled to wear a special achievement award as a result of over half of the Quad-City scouting units qualifying for the Pres. Eisenhower streamer, Gerald Walters, new Unihw chairman, announced at a commissioners' meeting Thursday night at Sacred Heart school.

District Commissioner Bernard Miller Jr. presented service stars to Tom Teague for four years of service and Leonard Robbers for three. B. J. Rodgers reminded the group of the council first-aid meet and the part commissioners will play as "doctors."

Glen Hommert announced that daytime den "mother" training sessions will be held at St. Joseph's Church from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Feb. 22, Mar. 1 and Mar. 8. Miller distributed new report sheets, and Ed Stone reported on Boy Scout Week activities and the annual council appreciation dinner Mar. 18.

Stone was appointed as the new east section assistant district commissioner, replacing Kipling Pellett, who has retired after 28 years of active work in the scouting program.

GCHS Vocational Students In Many Key Industrial Posts

Alumni of Granite City high school's vocational education program dot the roster of the professions and skilled trades, man plant and factory supervisory and managerial posts and occupy executive chairs in the Quad-Cities and a far-flung area of the world of industry.

They prove the reality of a well-qualified, trained sines on production, construction and power fronts. And they stand, individually and as a corps, a notable testimonial to the worth of the vocational courses, it is generally believed.

157 Enrolled
Following the instructional turnpike of many alumni of GCHS are the 157 juniors and seniors now completing semester courses in automotive, drafting, electronics, welding, industrial electricity, foundry techniques and other vocational fields.

Supt. Harold M. Kaiser handles overall supervision and Marshall A. Wittevorrel, director of the program (not co-educational) to train and guide students for the vocational field.

The director likes to describe the goals of vocational education as exemplified here, thusly:

First, to train for advantageous employment in skilled crafts and technical occupations. That the concept has played an important economic role in the lives of many is reckoned by the success and achievement of many alumni. Many have, of course, gone on to professional, technical and trades schools and colleges for further education.

Second, to provide a means of escape from the drudgery of the manual laborer. Many have, of course, gone on to professional, technical and trades schools and colleges for further education.

Third, to provide a means of escape from the drudgery of the manual laborer. Many have, of course, gone on to professional, technical and trades schools and colleges for further education.

Fourth, to provide a means of escape from the drudgery of the manual laborer. Many have, of course, gone on to professional, technical and trades schools and colleges for further education.

Fifth, to provide a means of escape from the drudgery of the manual laborer. Many have, of course, gone on to professional, technical and trades schools and colleges for further education.

Sixth, to provide a means of escape from the drudgery of the manual laborer. Many have, of course, gone on to professional, technical and trades schools and colleges for further education.

Seventh, to provide a means of escape from the drudgery of the manual laborer. Many have, of course, gone on to professional, technical and trades schools and colleges for further education.

Eighth, to provide a means of escape from the drudgery of the manual laborer. Many have, of course, gone on to professional, technical and trades schools and colleges for further education.

Ninth, to provide a means of escape from the drudgery of the manual laborer. Many have, of course, gone on to professional, technical and trades schools and colleges for further education.

Tenth, to provide a means of escape from the drudgery of the manual laborer. Many have, of course, gone on to professional, technical and trades schools and colleges for further education.

Eleventh, to provide a means of escape from the drudgery of the manual laborer. Many have, of course, gone on to professional, technical and trades schools and colleges for further education.

Twelfth, to provide a means of escape from the drudgery of the manual laborer. Many have, of course, gone on to professional, technical and trades schools and colleges for further education.

Thirteenth, to provide a means of escape from the drudgery of the manual laborer. Many have, of course, gone on to professional, technical and trades schools and colleges for further education.

Fourteenth, to provide a means of escape from the drudgery of the manual laborer. Many have, of course, gone on to professional, technical and trades schools and colleges for further education.

Fifteenth, to provide a means of escape from the drudgery of the manual laborer. Many have, of course, gone on to professional, technical and trades schools and colleges for further education.

Sixteenth, to provide a means of escape from the drudgery of the manual laborer. Many have, of course, gone on to professional, technical and trades schools and colleges for further education.

Seventeenth, to provide a means of escape from the drudgery of the manual laborer. Many have, of course, gone on to professional, technical and trades schools and colleges for further education.

Eighteenth, to provide a means of escape from the drudgery of the manual laborer. Many have, of course, gone on to professional, technical and trades schools and colleges for further education.

Nineteenth, to provide a means of escape from the drudgery of the manual laborer. Many have, of course, gone on to professional, technical and trades schools and colleges for further education.

Recent emphasis placed on the need for more upcoming young scientists, it is believed, may have somewhat held down vocational education enrollments. Not a large percentage of the students go on to college, but many do.

Wittevorrel says he likes to regard the vocational students as equally or perhaps more mature than the college-bound.

He adds that the vocational students are not only more mature, but they are also more responsible and more capable of handling the responsibilities of the industrial world.

While the department makes no job guarantee, no small effort is put forth to secure work for those students who want to go from school into industry. Interviews are arranged, and many have benefited from this project.

The graduates often go on to further education in the form of international and state-level awards and citations in contests.

Scout First-Aid Team Judging Here Saturday

Participation by Unihw Quad-City district Boy Scout patrol in the yearly Cub Scouts Council first-aid meet Saturday, Jan. 14, has been designated for the 9:30 a.m. to noon period.

Groups from the Edwardsville, Collinsville, Highland and Bond county districts will compete between 1:30 and 4 p.m.

In the past, there will be several locations, each convening on a special phase of first-aid. Each patrol will be required to cope with separate problems at the Nieringhaus Memorial Methodist Church, St. Joseph's Catholic Church, St. George's Lutheran Church, and First Assembly of God Church.

Assignments will be rotated to speed the judging.

Preliminary rating of first-aid proficiency has taken place at the troop level, and assignments for the council meet are being sent directly to scoutmasters. Each patrol will bring a first-aid kit, triangular bandages, splint materials and two or three blankets.

5 Quad-Cityans To Be Drafted On Jan. 26

Five local area inductees have been selected to fill the January draft quota, and will report to the county selective service office in Edwardsville at 6:30 p.m. Jan. 26.

Ten others are slated to report for pre-induction physical examinations.

All except one draftee is a volunteer. The youths will be sent to the examining station at 12th and Spruce street in St. Louis, and from there will go to the reception center at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo.

The February quota will be announced later.

NHS Initiation Tonight

Initiation of 26 Granite City high school students as members of the National Honor Society will take place during a public program at 8 o'clock tonight in the school auditorium. Refreshments will be served afterward.

Highlights will include a talk by Supt. Harold M. Kaiser and several musical selections.

Quad-City Safety Council Preparing Program For 1961

The Quad-City Safety Council is preparing its program for 1961. It was announced today by the president, Granite City Police Chief Raymond Willard.

Heading the committee to outline the year's activities is Cliff Blankenship of the A. O. Smith Corp. plant, aided by George E. Odom of General Steel Castings Corp. and Granite City Fire Chief Elijah King and L. C. Parker of Granite City Steel Co.

The group has decided to conduct another safety poster contest for children and set "Safety Week" for the week of July 4 to include the July 4 holiday.

Willard said the huge success of the safety poster contest last September resulted in the decision to renew the project this year.

The council president announced a program is being developed to promote additional safety measures in vocational shop classes at Granite City high school at the suggestion of M. A. Wittevorrel, vocational director, in order to prepare students for work in industry.

The council will next meet for a luncheon session at the Elks Club on April 4.
